KITCHEN EXHAUST

(Often referred to as Hood Cleaning) is the process of removing grease that has accumulated inside the ducts, hoods, fans and vents of exhaust systems of commercial kitchens.

GREASE TRAP CLEANING

Since fats and oils can clog a sewer system, the use of a trap ensures that the sewer system runs smoothly. In a commercial kitchen, it treats all of the water coming out of the kitchen.

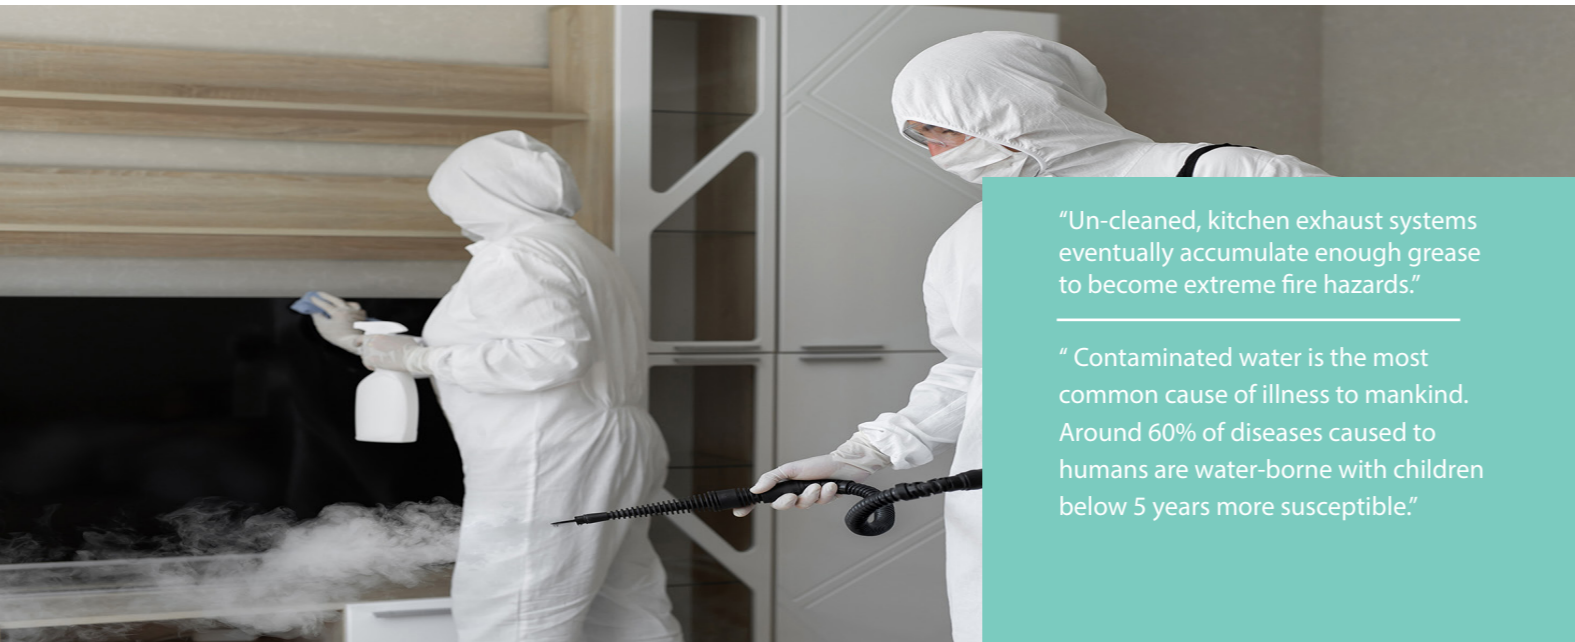

ROOF EXHAUST FANS

Kitchen exhaust fans do a great job of removing steam and smells from the kitchen when you are cooking. Cooking produces steam and grease, both of which can be drawn up through an exhaust fan above.

WATER TANK CLEANING

“Un-cleaned, kitchen exhaust systems eventually accumulate enough grease to become extreme fire hazards.”

“Grease and residue can build up on the range, hood, floor and ceiling, creating a fire hazard. Cleaning the hood regularly is not enough. When grease and residue are not removed from other parts of the exhaust system regularly, this creates a flammable situation.”
